Keeping in touch with Iowa's Churches of Christ

June 2017

We're Back !!!

You can once again look forward to catching up on news of the six Iowa churches.

Many of you have expressed disappointment at the closing of this long tradition, as we endeavored to share the happenings of dear brothers and sisters in Christ in the area.

It is with pleasure that I introduce you to the new editors, Tom and Dianne Collier, members of the congregation at Martensdale. They will be gathering and editing the news each month. We appreciate their willingness to volunteer their time and effort in this project, and wish them much success in the future.

Blessings from your former editor,

Ruth Schell

Monthly Message

"Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

Psalms 133:1

In a time when we are connected in ways like never before, we still often find something missing in our lives. As Christians, where are those who share our values? Who will strengthen me when I am weak? Who will be willing to share the burdens of life with me? Who can I share my joys with? How can I be a source of strength for others?

"Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep. Be of the same mind one toward another."

Romans 12:15-16a

Are we sometimes like Elijah, thinking that we are alone in our desire to serve the Lord according to His will? Even though we know we are not alone, it is still reassuring to know how our brethren are doing. It is good to be able to share our joys and sorrows, to know who we need to pray for, and to know others are praying for us. We understand that the less we are connected with one another, the more we will be connected with the world.

The challenge today, as it always has been, is taking the gospel to a lost world. This is a daily challenge for each of us. The gospel is often met with much resistance. Society in general is disinterested. Open discussion of God's word is discouraged, which may lead to our own discouragement. This is when our times of fellowship together carry the day for us.

We hopefully experience this encouragement within each of our congregations daily and weekly. There are opportunities also when our brethren have special meetings and studies. By staying connected, we profit by the teaching and the fellowship. And it provides for us a wholesome social life. This certainly answers the question, "Where do we find those who share our values?"

We have willingly made our own lives hectic, though we would probably never admit it. There is only one place that we will find "the peace that passes all understanding." The more we partake of this sweet retreat the better our life will be---in our heart, in our home, and in our role in the world.

As time moves forward in this declining world, hopefully we will see and understand how much we need each other. The more we stay connected to the body of Christ, the brighter our light will shine in the world. It is with this thought in mind that we relaunch the Lighthouse. We hope to inform and be informed of the Lord's work among the congregations and to encourage one another to "be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord." 1 Corinthians 15:58
